Moodle Tip #1: “My Homepage Looks Funny” –
If your homepage looks funny after logging on to Moodle, this may be because the style sheet has not loaded. To refresh the system, press F5.

Moodle Tip #2: Q & A forum
When the Question and Answer mode is selected, Moodle hides the replies to the initial thread post by the teacher but not the entire forum itself. When creating the forum, post each question as a thread. Students must then post replies to the question.

Warning: Do not post the question in the forum summary! Student answers will become a thread and therefore visible to all students.

FITS August Workshops – Monday, August 26, 013
Register online at http://web.gcc.mass.edu/learning-resources/2013/04/23/fits-faculty-workshops-august-28-2013/

Morning workshops: Camtasia & Streaming Video; Smartboard; Drop Box/JING/Google Apps; Moodle for beginners.
Afternoon: “Sharing Best Practices in Moodle” an open discussion from 1:00 – 3:00 pm (refreshments provided)

MOODLE UPDATES

Moodle v2.4 on the test server. Please try it out when you are on campus.

Click to access the server: http://replacement.gcc.mass.edu/login/index.php

REMINDERS

“Student Support Services” folder
Please, do not delete this folder. It contains links to the support services and departments students should have access to whether they are taking a face-to-face or fully-online course.

QuickMail
Emails can be sent to students via their GCC email accounts from within Moodle. However, replies to these emails are directed to the sender’s GCC email, not to Quickmail within Moodle.